Brazil's Engemap a reseller for ImStrat Corporation's Intelligence, Surveillance and Reconnaissance (ISR) Training Programs

ImStrat Corporation is pleased to announce the expansion of its Intelligence, Surveillance and Reconnaissance training services into the South America market. The company has concluded an agreement with Engemap in Brazil. Engemap will be the exclusive authorized Brazilian business partner for ImStrat Corporation's (ISR) training programs and intelligence courses.

"We are extremely pleased to have Engemap as a reseller of our specialized courses and integrated training programs." With Engemap's complementary services and capabilities, and their very considerable networks, we foresee a highly successful business relationship in this market, building on a strong foundation." says founder and President Tom Last.

"Engemap is very excited to be able to serve the South America market with the experience and technology of the renowned ImStrat. We see a good momentum of opportunities" says Engemap CEO César Antonio Francisco.

ImStrat Corporation is a privately held Canadian defence company that has been providing Intelligence and Geospatial Intelligence (GEOINT) Analysis training to both Canadian and international military personnel since 1997. ImStrat's personnel come from Canadian and European NATO military backgrounds. Our programs and training courses follow Canadian military and NATO standards. We continue to meet our demanding ongoing annual and multi-year training commitments to our clients with the highest professional standards. Whether your organization requires the development of a GEOINT capability or annual customized courses such as UAV imagery analysis, we can accommodate your specific training requirements.
